

For golf enthusiasts, the only way to celebrate Himno y Bandera Day is on The Links!

Adam Williamson, head golf pro of The Links at the Divi considers this years Himno y Bandera Day Tournament a rousing success, as does the twelve four-person teams that took part. Assisting Adam in making it such a success was newly arrived golf pro Shawn Scott of Boston, who scrupulously kept the scores straight.

This year's competition saw quite a few women of the Divi Links Women's Club join in and a fine afternoon making the rounds of the Divine Nine produced some happy first place winners that will return to the course for a weekend of golf and a stay at the Divi Links Resort, compliments of the management. First place winners Michael Boswel, Herbie Birchfield, David Cullison and Gilbert Thomson will be back to enjoy the beautiful facilities and can play golf to their hearts content without a thought to green fees, at least for one weekend, someday soon.

The second place winning team of Larry Nedd, Floyd Nedd and Nigel Nedd, along with George Wong can use their $250 gift certificates to The Links Pro Shop for anything a golfer's heart desires, while third place winners Elton Barbour, Francis Cheung, Carlos Garnica and Buffy Barbour proudly make their way around in brand new Foot Joy Golf shoes.

The winners of the longest Drive, Omar de Souza, and the two closest to the pin winners, Gary Connelly and David Cullison all took home a dozen Titleist golf balls.

It was a great day for Aruba and a great day of golf at the Divi Links!
